

It has been wonderful this past year to be able to leave the ringer of my phone turned on. I had been receiving so many telemarketer calls that I had to keep the phone shut off at night, otherwise they would wake me up early every morning. It was not a pleasant way to start my day.